

Qantas

Qantas Airways was founded in outback Australia in 1920 to link remote communities and is the world's most experienced airline, having flown continuously for over 90 years. With a long history of innovation, safety and outstanding customer service, Qantas Airways is one of Australia's leading international and domestic carriers. It was the first and only airline to build its' own aircraft; it pioneered air travel services between Australia and Europe and introduced the first Business Class service.

Today Qantas operates 4 daily services from London Heathrow to Australia: Sydney via Bangkok, Sydney via Singapore, Melbourne via Hong Kong and Melbourne via Singapore. Additionally convenient direct connecting Qantas Group services are available from Singapore to Perth, Brisbane, Adelaide, Darwin and Cairns; as well as onward services from Australia to New Zealand. Regional connections are available from around the UK to London Heathrow with British Airways.

Together with their oneworld alliance partners, Qantas offers an extensive range of stopover options in Asia, the Pacific, the Americas, Europe and Africa.

With fares to compliment this network including the Walkabout Fare, the World Walkabout and the Walkabout Airpass, Qantas provides the opportunity to travel around the world at competitive rates. In addition to the international network, the Qantas Group also offers a vast domestic network covering over 50 destinations across Australia whilst Jetstar, Qantas' partner airline, also offers domestic flights between Auckland, Christchurch, Wellington and Queenstown. 130 lounges worldwide offer First and Business Class customers, Platinum and Gold Frequent Flyers and Qantas Club members the ultimate experience.

In 2009, the Qantas A380, the largest and most technologically advanced passenger aircraft ever built commenced selected services between London and Australia. Qantas drew on years of experience in customer service, design and innovation to create an unprecedented level of style and comfort that is yours to enjoy – the Qantas A380 is now operating on selected services from London Heathrow to Singapore, Sydney and Melbourne.
